

Sinovuyo Teen Parent Programme

Semi-Structured Interviews with Community Liaison Officer 2015

Thank you for agreeing to be interviewed. We appreciate your time in giving us insight into your interest in the Sinovuyo Parenting Programme. This programme is being assessed in a Randomised Control Trial, where we interview parents and teenagers before and after the parenting programme so we can see whether and how the programme made a difference. The work we are doing in this interview and others like it is more about the stories and networking that goes on in the programme. Your input here is very valuable.

This interview won't take more than an hour. Your participation is voluntary and you are free to withdraw if you wish. This will not affect your involvement in Sinovuyo.

Because it is important for us to make sure we record and reproduce correctly the things you say here, we will record the interview. Is this okay?

This interview will help inform our research and publications relating to the qualitative evaluation of the Sinovuyo Parenting Programme. But we will ensure that any views you expressed here will remain confidential. Do we have your consent to proceed?

Yes?

This interview has two parts. We are first interested in you, who you are and how you have been involved in Sinovuyo. We are then interested in the work you have done with recruiting villages and participants to be a part of the Sinovuyo programme.

Part One: We are documenting how the programme works so if we had to repeat it we would know what role you played. So we would like to begin by learning a little bit more about yourself.

1. To begin, tell us a little bit about who you are and how you got involved with Sinovuyo?
2. What role do you play in Sinovuyo?

Part Two: We're now interested in your role recruiting participants into the Sinovuyo programme. How this happened and what the participant response was to recruitment.

3. How were the participants selected and recruited? Using what criteria? How were these criteria determined? Who decided on these criteria?
4. Who selected the participants?
5. What was the participant motivation for joining the programme?
6. What were the participant understandings of the Sinovuyo programme?
7. What proportion of the participants were outside the original target group? What is the nature of this group?
8. What was the response to being invited to be a part of the programme?
  - Was there resistance to the programme? If yes, what/why?
  - Who makes the decisions about parenting in the household?
